

What's for Dinner? – Sunday Linky #29

It's Sunday afternoon and you hear –
“What's for Dinner?”

We've all heard it – and then we realize, what IS for dinner? Here is the place to get AND share those delicious recipes!

So please join in and share your recipes and menu ideas – All meal or food related, family-friendly posts are invited! Feel free to post linkys that are food related as well!

Here are this week's Features – be sure to visit them all and let them know what you think!

First – the most visited post! Michelle Wiles from Love Lines from God shared this delicious, Broccoli and Potato Soup. With less than 10 ingredients, it's right up my alley!

Now, two of my personal favorites!

Meeshie's World shared the World's Best Cinnamon Rolls – and I will be trying them for my grandson, the cinnamon roll king!

and from the blog, Dad, What's for Dinner – 50 great Recipes for the Big Game – complete with a printable props sheet!

I will visit and comment on every post shared and I would really appreciate it if you took a moment to leave a comment here for me too! (If you do, I'll pin your post as well!)

Now Quick! Tell all your friends about the great recipes people are posting – and stop by and visit them. You'll be glad you did!

Follow the links to find the recipes to all the features! And thank you to everyone who have shared at the party!

And if you were featured, please grab the button below and share it on your sidebar! All featured posts also get pinned!

And now on to the PARTY! ...

There are a few rules –

Please leave a comment for your host! When we comment, we not only help our blogs to grow, we help each other with great ideas! (and I'll pin posts from the folks who leave comments!)

Only food related posts! Recipes, food review, even linky parties -If it is about food, please share it!

Please visit two or three other posts and comment on them. This is what helps us all grow!

Note: By linking up you are giving the Lazy Gastronome to use your posts as future features on the blog. And thank you!

So let's party!!
